HOUSTON – January 31, 2017 – TAM International, an independent oilfield services company providing inflatable and swellable packers to the oil and gas industry, announces that TAM International Norway AS has completed its registration as a fully qualified supplier in the Achilles Joint Qualification System (JQS).

The Achilles JQS is a registration system that pre-qualifies suppliers like TAM International Norway AS to service the Norwegian and Danish oil and gas sector. The Achilles JQS is used by buyers and supply chain personnel to manage supplier information and risk during the procurement process, and to ensure compliance with EU regulations.

Achilles JQS smooths the way to new business opportunities for suppliers and buyers by simplifying and facilitating the tender process.

At TAM, our goal is to consistently meet or exceed the requirements of both our customers and the industry by continually improving processes, products, and services to ensure an effective quality management system.

“Our TAM Norway operation is committed to quality, assured through the office’s successful formal certification to ISO 9001:2008 quality standards,” said Colin Graham, Business Development Manager, TAM International Norway AS.

TAM has further strengthened its commitment to quality through its introduction of the Excellence at the Wellsite® campaign. TAM believes that if every employee performs his or her job in a manner that exceeds expectations, the end result will benefit our customers, our employees, and our company.
