TAM International Leadership Promotions Strengthen Services Globally

Steven Scott Expands Role to Vice President, Eastern Hemisphere in Aberdeen; Bob Brooks Promoted to Vice President, Technical Services in Houston

HOUSTON – March 8, 2011 – TAM International, Inc., an independent oilfield service company providing inflatable and swellable packers, announces the promotions of Steven Scott, as Vice President, Eastern Hemisphere and Bob Brooks as Vice President, Technical Services.

“As a leader in the development and marketing of inflatable and swellable packer technology, TAM International prides itself on having excellent talent,” said Bentley Sanford, President of TAM International. “Bob and Steven are great assets to TAM that strengthen our global leadership.”

As VP, Eastern Hemisphere, Scott will focus on financial and operational responsibilities for all sales and service offices within the Eastern region including TAM’s Asia Pacific, Europe, Middle East, the former Soviet Union and Africa businesses.

Scott has worked with TAM for 24 years in Aberdeen and Houston. Previously, he served as Vice President, Europe, Africa and the Middle East. Prior to TAM, he worked with Baker Hughes.

Scott has co-authored various technical articles for World Oil and JPT. He is a 20-year member of SPE.

Brooks has worked with TAM for five years. Prior to his promotion, Brooks served as Technical Director and oversaw marketing and advertising. Before TAM, he ran his own consulting business. In his new role Brooks will be overseeing all aspects of engineering operations, technical support, R&D, and the inside sales group.

Brooks has written numerous technical articles for various oil & gas journals and professional societies. He holds over 30 issued design patents and is a member of the Energy Institute, the America Society of Mechanical Engineers, the National Association of Corrosion Engineers, the American Chemical Society (Rubber Division) and is a 30+ year member of both SPE and NACE.
